Being in Isolation due to COVID-19, I've watched the seasons change through my window. I've attempted to capture petals flying and weeping on to the landscapes creating 'fireworks' in the sky. The petals dancing like musical notes create their own song and dance. Every petal represents a soul with its own personality and aura. Petals like a veil cover the sky creating beautiful rhythms and giving depth, painted with a pallet knife and brush to give texture and a 3D look. These paintings have a peaceful, tranquil quality about them, inviting the viewer to engage within the landscape. It's been difficult being in Isolation, not seeing others, but I've been creating a lot more.
